RAJYA SABHA

The following Bills were introduced in the Rajya Sabha on the 30th November, 2007:—

I

BILL NO. LXII OF 2007

A Bill further to amend the Indian Penal Code, 1860.

Be it enacted by Parliament in the Fifty-eighth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Penal Code (Amendment) Act, 2007.

Short title and commencement.

(2) It shall come into force with immediate effect.

2. In section 279 of the Indian Penal Code (hereinafter referred to as the Code) for the words "with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to six months, or fine which may extend to one thousand rupees or with both" the words "with imprisonment

Amendment of section 279.

of either description for a term which may extend to one year and with fine which may extend to five thousand rupees and for second or subsequent offence with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years and with fine which may extend to ten thousand rupees" shall be substituted.

Amendment
of section
304A.

3. In section 304A of the Code for the words "with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to two years or with fine, or with both" the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years and fine which may extend to one lakh rupees:

Provided that if it is proved that the rash or negligent act was committed under the influence of alcohol, the punishment shall not be less than three years but may extend to five years and the fine shall not be less than one lakh rupees but may extend to five lakh rupees:

Provided further that notwithstanding anything contained in this Code or the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 or the Motor Vehicles Act, 1981 the offence under this section shall be non-bailable."

20 of 1974.
59 of 1981.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

It is horrible but true that not a single day goes without, a report in the newspaper about a mother or school child or a poor man crushed by a bus or some vehicle or other. Rash and negligent driving claims more than 60,000 innocent lives across the country every year. The blue line buses in the Capital city have become killer buses and are running amok on the streets of Delhi. These buses more often than not, are engaged in a race with each other trying desperately to stay ahead so that they can take more passengers. The drivers of these buses are always under stress as they run against time to cover maximum distance or trips during the day and in the process end with causing fatal accidents. Call centres' cab drivers are another culprits on the road as with a view to reaching on time during odd hours they drive these cabs at a very high speed resulting in accidents. Even the incidents of drunken driving in urban areas are rising menacingly. Drunken bus drivers and youngsters behave as monster behind the steering, as if there is no law to check them and rightly so in view of the weak provisions of law which hardly act as a deterrent.

When a vehicle moves down a person, the police starts a case under section 279 and 304A of the IPC which pertain to rash and negligent driving and causing death due to same. The offences under these sections are bailable offences and within hours of the accident the person is free and within a day or two he is again behind the wheel as if nothing has happened. Even the period of punishment under these sections is very less and that too is rarely awarded. IPC was enacted in the year 1861 when there were hardly any motor vehicles in the country. The absurdity of the law can be gauged from the fact that if you can drive and kill somebody, the offence is bailable and if you steal Rs. 10 from some one it is a non-bailable offence under IPC. Therefore, the present position of law does not act as deterrent for the offenders.

Recently, the Supreme Court while considering the increasing number of vehicular accidents resulting in death of a large number of innocent people has favoured that punishment under 304A for two year is grossly inadequate.

Therefore, it is high time that amendment be made in sections 279 and 304A of IPC by prescribing stringent punishment besides making offence under 304A non-bailable.

Hence this Bill.

11. The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, make rules for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Today, there is a cut throat competition among the Banks and financial institutions to increase their customer base, particularly, by giving loans on attractive terms. Day in and day out, hectic calls are made by the representatives of Banks or their agents to lakhs of persons offering loans for all kinds of requirements. Once a person accepts the offer and completes the deal, his ordeal begins. After this, there appears sequence of hidden conditions and charges which are not informed to the customers at the time of giving loan. If due to some genuine reasons, a customer fails to repay one or two installments of loan, the bank or its agent which were so soft while giving loan, change their colours and adopt all kind of illegal and harsh methods to recover loan. Though many of the Banks are doing a fair business and following the procedure established by law in case of default but there are Banks, which are giving birth to all kind of unpredicted procedures and methods in debt recovery leading to cases of intimidation and harassment. In normal course, if a customer is not paying his debt, proceeding against him may be initiated in debt recovery tribunal or courts instead of harassing him. In fact, in the era of outsourcing, Banks have also given the recovery process to some private companies, who for each recovery, get commission. More often than not the recovery agents and Banks are not at the same wavelength. These private companies often employ musclemen who threaten the customers and their families. These musclemen insult the customer in full public view and, at times, take away the car or the household item for which the loan has been secured and also make anonymous calls. Courts and RBI have, on several occasions, cautioned the Banks and their agents on such action in recovering loan. RBI has even issued a set of guidelines preventing Banks and their agents to resort to intimidation or harassment method in their debt collection efforts. But all this has not been able to curb the coercive methods by agents of the Banks adopted in loan recovery simply because. These guidelines are ineffective in the absence of any punishment for their violation. Therefore, it is high time that a law on the subject may be framed to save the innocent customers from the harassment and insult.

Hence this Bill.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Coaching Centres providing coaching to students for cracking various competitive examinations such as engineering, medical and civil services are doing big business now-a-days. Of late, their number has also increased to a very high level. Newspapers are full of advertisements of these coaching centres in order to attract maximum students. These centres charges a very hefty amount for various kinds of coaching programmes being run by them. Though there is no doubt that there are some very good coaching centres but many of these centres are fly by night operator who charge heavy money as fee but do not provide proper coaching nor do they have proper infrastructure for the purpose. These Coaching Centres fleece the students and their parents by giving lucrative offers for joining them. Similar is the case with the coaching centres providing coaching to lakhs of aspirants for various jobs in Government and Private Sector. As of now there is no law to regulate the functioning of these coaching centres.

Some of these centres are actually playing with the fate of lakhs of youth of the country. Therefore, time has come to regulate and control their activities in order to protect the interest of students aspiring to become professionals or secure jobs.

Hence this Bill.

There is an acute shortage of electricity in the katras and densely populated settlements located in the metropolitan cities and major cities of the country. The citizens living in the katras and densely populated settlements have to face a lot of difficulties due to the shortage of electricity. During summer the situation becomes the worst. Due to non-availability of open spaces and parks nearby these katras and densely populated settlements, the citizens living there feel suffocated during failure of power. Due to non-availability of power their lives become hell, especially in the summer.

Therefore, it is proposed to make the supply of electricity compulsory in the katras and densely populated settlement located in the metropolitan cities and major cities of the country.

11. The Central Government, in consultation with the State Governments, may by notification in the Official Gazette, make rules for carrying out the purposes of this Act. Power to make rules.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

There are many unaided private schools in the country. Running unaided private schools has become a business now-a-days. In many cases the motive behind this is to earn money rather than to provide quality education. These schools charge hefty tuition fees apart from imposing various other charges in the name of donation, building construction fund, computer fees, etc. Not only that, despite availing necessary tax benefit, these schools are not utilizing the money for the development of the schools. The teachers of these schools are paid paltry sum as salary and are not provided service benefits such as medical facilities, provident fund, etc. Even the teachers of these schools are retrenched or removed without assigning any reason. Female teachers are also exploited in different ways in these private schools. Education is not safe in the hands of these unscrupulous people. The system of functioning of these persons run of private schools is to charge heavy fees on the one side and to give very low salary to the teachers on the other and they are violating tax laws without any fear of penal action.

Therefore, it will be expedient to develop an appropriate system to monitor, regulate and control the growing commercialization of education in order to ensure quality education and to save the people from exploitation.

Hence, the Bill.

JAI PARKASH AGGARWAL

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 3 of the Bill provides that the appropriate Government shall establish an Education Authority to regulate the functioning of non-aided private schools under its territorial jurisdiction. The Bill, if enacted, will involve expenditure from the consolidated fund of India in respect of Union Territories. It is estimated that a sum of rupees one crore may involve as recurring expenditure per annum and about rupees twelve lakh may also involve as non-recurring expenditure.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 11 of the Bill gives power to the Central Government to make rules in consultation with the State Governments for carrying out the purposes of the Bill. Since, the matters about which the rules are required to be made related to details only, the delegation of legislation power is of normal character.

VI

BILL NO. LXXI OF 2007

A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India.

Be it enacted by Parliament in the Fifty-eighth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 2007.
2. In the preamble to the Constitution the words "SOCIALIST, SECULAR" shall be omitted.

Amendment
of the Preamble.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The words secular and socialist were inserted in the preamble to the Constitution during emergency (1975 to 1977) when fundamental rights were suspended. The incorporation of these words therefore, escaped detailed scrutiny.

Bharat being an ancient nation with values much higher and all inclusive culture does not need 'isms' as guiding principles.

Moreover today the Governments are appointing Commissions and making special provisions for people of chosen religions even though provisions for minorities already existing in the Constitution. Thus a question mark has arisen on the word "SECULAR".

In the face of growing competition amongst the staunch socialist and communist regimes to obtain assistance from capitalists even at the cost of farmer's land, the word "SOCIALIST" has also lost significance.

Hence the need to drop the words SECULAR and SOCIALIST through this amendment.

VII

BILL No. LXXVII OF 2007

A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India.

Be it enacted by Parliament in the Fifty-eighth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 2007.

Short title and commencement.

(2) It shall come into force, at once.

2. In the tenth schedule to the constitution, in para 6, in sub-para (1) before the existing proviso, the following proviso should be inserted, namely:—

Amendment
of the Tenth Schedule.

"Provided that Chairman or the Speaker, as the case may be, shall have authority to disqualify a member, even if such member of the original political party, on account of suspension or expulsion of such member by such political party, ceases to be a member of such party".

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

A member, who incurs disqualification under the Tenth Schedule and also commits acts of indiscipline, can be suspended or expelled by his original political party from its membership. In such an event his membership of the House remains intact. A petition to the Presiding Officer of the House also does not lie in view of the fact that the original political party has either suspended or expelled him from the membership of the House.

A political party whose member has betrayed it should not be rendered so helpless that if the party suspends or expells him, it can not invoke provisions of the Tenth Schedule and if it intends to invoke the provisions of the Tenth Schedule, treat him as its member and tolerate helplessly all the acts of indiscipline that such member may commit, in order that the party may be due to get him disqualified under the Tenth Schedule.

Hence the Bill.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Superstitious beliefs are prevailing in the country for the last several centuries. These beliefs have taken strong roots in the society and have done irreparable harm to it, particularly to the weaker sections. It was expected that as time passes, scientific temper in the minds of the people will increase and, people may refrain from resorting to unpleasant and crude methods to achieve their social and other objectives. Literacy is increasing among the people but, disbelief in superstitions has not diminished in the same proportion.

Literate people too, are found to be indulging in superstitions in quite an astonishing proportion.

It is unfortunate that several persons in public life in some form or the other practice superstitions. Although, religious practices or rituals stand on different footings, practicing of superstitions in the name of religion is dangerous. Well to do persons or others in the business community or the rich farming class at times may lose a few thousand rupees, but the poor, who practice superstitions in the name of religion suffer immensely.

Therefore, restraint has to be imposed on those who lead the society. Disqualifying those who seek to contest elections, is one way, of making the message, loud and clear.

Hence this Bill.

BILL NO. LXXIII OF 2007

A Bill further to amend the Representation of the People Act, 1951.

Be it enacted by Parliament in the Fifty-eighth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Representation of the People (Amendment) Act, 2007. Short title and commencement.

(2) It shall come into force on such date, as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint.

2. In the Representation of the people Act, 1951, in section 28A, the following proviso shall be inserted, namely,— Amendment of section 28A of Act of 1951.

"Provided that nothing in this section shall authorise the Election Commission to exercise any of the powers mentioned above with respect to any case or matter after the declaration of results, notwithstanding that any such case or matter was dealt by the Commission between the period of notification and the declaration of results."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Section 28-A of the Representation of the Peoples' Act, 1951 reads as under:—

"The returning officer, assistant returning officer and any other officer appointed under this part and any police officer designated for the time being by the State Government for the conduct of any election shall be deemed to be on deputation to the Election Commission for the period commencing on and from the date of the notification calling for such election and ending with the date of declaration of the results of such election and accordingly, such officers shall, during that period, be subject to the control, superintendence and discipline of the Election Commission."

However, in many cases it has been the experience of various State Governments and other authorities that the Commission insists on exercising powers in cases dealt with by them during the election period which commences on the date of notification and ends on the declaration of results, even after the period is over.

If an officer is suspended during the period of elections, the Commission insists that all further proceedings shall be regulated under their directions. The State Government has no power to drop the proceedings or revoke the suspension, pending the disciplinary proceedings. The Commission thereby violate the rules framed by the Government to regulate service matters of the Government employees, for which powers stand vested in the Commission only during the election period.

Hence this Bill.

"(5) The appropriate Government shall, within three years from the commencement of this Act, establish a nodal agency for disseminating any information under this Act, from a single window for the convenience of the citizens."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Right to Information Act, 2005, was enacted as an extension of the Fundamental Rights under article 19 of the Constitution in the year 2005. The Act paves the way for access to information under the control of public authorities on payment of nominal fee and in a fixed time frame. The enactment to a large extent helped in making the affairs of the Government transparent and make the information in the government records available to citizens at large. But, certain shortcomings had been noticed in the implementation of the Act. The persons who fought for the right to know have protested on exclusion of the noting and remarks on files from public view. To make the things in Government transparent, the notings on files should be available to the citizens. Though CIC has ruled in favour of giving the file notings but the provision does not exist in the Act in view of the adverse opinion held by the concerned Ministry. Accordingly, the appropriate provisions have been proposed in the Bill.

As per the existing set-up, the Act shall not apply to certain intelligence and security organizations listed in the Second Schedule. But, exceptions have been made in respect of information pertaining allegation of corruption and human right violations. In this regards, it is proposed that exception pertaining to life and liberty of a person should also be made and the information in this regard should be provided by intelligence and security agencies. Similarly, there is also a proposal that a Information Commissioners should not hold the post. Accordingly the amendment has been suggested.

Also, the fine of Rs. 250/- per day is on lower side which should be raised to Rs. 500/- per day and, in addition, the Commission should have power to directly punish the violator by way of imprisonment. There is no provision for penalty on vexatious or malafide complaints in the Act. Instances have come to notice that, at times, the applicants file such complaints before the Central Information Commission or State Information Commission. There has to be provision for penalty for vexatious or malafide complaint or appear which has been appropriately proposed.

It has also been noticed that citizens are also facing problem in seeking information from various Departments as they have to move from one department to other department for seeking information. Therefore, there is a need for single window scheme for disseminating information under a nodal agency.

Hence this Bill.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Large number of areas in various parts of the country particularly in the States of Jharkhand, Bihar, Madhya Pradesh, Orissa, Andhra Pradesh, etc. are frequently affected by unprecedented drought and play havoc in such areas. The Palamu division in Bihar and Kalahandi in Orissa have become synonymous with drought. It has been observed that during the drought period the inhabitants do not have food to eat and water to drink for their survival resulting in their exodus. In many areas starvation deaths also occur. The worst sufferers in such time are the mute livestock. People leave them stray to fend for themselves and without fodder and water they ultimately die. The Governments at the Centre and State provide some sort of relief to the people of such areas but the mute animals remain uncared for. It is, therefore, necessary that the supply of food and potable water and also the fodder be maintained on priority and it should remain uninterrupted so that the people do not leave such places and the livestock too get its fodder and water for its survival.

Hence this Bill.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

For centuries the practice of employing persons for carrying human excreta on their heads or likewise is in existence in every part of our country. In fact it has become a hereditary profession and generation after generation the scavengers have no other option but to perform scavenging jobs for their subsistence. This has resulted in total illiteracy among the children of scavengers who if given proper chance can prove to be genius and outstanding students but they are forced to do the scavenging jobs which is a continuing stigma on our social fabric. To do away with this dehumanising practice the Government have got enacted a legislation title the Employment of Manual Scavengers and Construction of Dry Latrines (Prohibition) Act, 1993 which makes the employment or engagement of manual scavengers a punishable offence. But this is not enough. We have to remove the causes from their roots. We have to educate the scavengers particularly their children, majority of whom live below the poverty line. Their income is meagre and they struggle throughout their lives just to make both ends meet so they can not even think of primary education not to speak of higher education including technical education.

It is, therefore, necessary that the Central and State Government should provide free educational facilities including higher studies to the children of scavengers for their proper upliftment. They should be provided with books, uniforms, stationery, transportation and hostel facilities to help them in getting better opportunities of employment and raise their standard of living. Then only the abnoxious practice of manual scavenging can be wiped out from our country.

Hence this Bill.

S.S. AHLUWALIA.

This Bill, if enacted brought into operation will involve a recurring expenditure of about one hundred crore rupees from the Consolidated Fund of India per annum.
